A day school on Edward Burne-Jones and his work at Birmingham & Midland Institute, Margaret Street, Birmingham B3 3BS

Saturday 6th April 2019 starting at 10.00 Refreshments from 9.30am
£45 including lunch & refreshments Rate for full time students £30*

The Victorian Society is organising a day school to raise awareness of Birmingham St Philip's Cathedral fundraising appeal (Divine Beauty) to restore and celebrate Edward Burne-Jones's stained glass windows. Made by William Morris & Co these windows represent the very best of Victorian stained glass, but at 130 years old their condition is now deteriorating.

All the profit from this day school will be donated to the Appeal.

Katherine Hinzman (PhD candidate at University of York) will summarise Burne-Jones's background including his early days in Birmingham. Dr Laura MacCulloch (Royal Holloway University) will look at his drawings while Madeline Emerald Thiele (PhD student at Aberystwyth University) will outline his work and the construction of the Pre-Raphaelite Angel. Dr Jim Cheshire will discuss Burne-Jones's stained glass while Dr Rachel Sloan (Courtauld Institute) will consider the continuing legacy and influences of his work. After the Day School William Walters and Alastair Carew-Cox will lead a guided tour of the cathedral windows.
